1. People say it's hopeless, money rules the world
It rules with an iron hand, and we're helpless in its hold

People say you're crazy, you can't break that wall
It's too old, too big, too strong, it's never going to fall

I say – think of the Iron Curtain, remember Berlin, Remember apartheid, look at the state they're in

There's no wall too tall
No wall too tall to fall
No wall, no wall too tall

2. Money vendors crowd the temple, survival crowds the heart
It seems there's no other way, you're doomed before you start

But we know a greater power in the hearts of the young and old
Love for all the children, the compassion in our world

And I say : No wall too tall
No wall too tall to fall
No wall, no wall too tall

bridge:
sound the call, blow the bugle, walls come a tumblin down in the face of the power of love, the rules start spinning around

No wall too tall
No wall too tall to fall
No wall, no wall too tall

No wall too tall
No wall too tall to fall
No wall, no wall too tall
